

A Yank tank. The men are Yanks and the machine is Yank and both are in France, as the Hun well knows.
Copyright, Committee on Public Information.

President Wilson
arriving at the Pennsylvania Station on the day he made his notable speech
opening the Liberty Loan
campaign.
Copyright, Underwood
& Underwood

Here is the man who actually fired the first American shot in the war. He is Capt. I. R. McLendon of the —th Field Artillery, A. E. F.

At the grave of Quentin Roosevelt. American soldiers who discovered the spot in the reconquered Marne territory pay tribute to the fallen aviator. The Germans had placed a rude cross and the remains of the machine in which Col. Roosevelt's son flew to mark the young American's last resting place.
Copyright, Committee on Public Information.